in Association with the Smithsonian Institution

Watercolor Exhibit and Sale Opens in October

Pastoral landscapes and vivid portraits will enchant visitors to the Southern Museum of Civil War and Locomotive History this fall as it hosts the Georgia Watercolor Society's Annual Show October 1 – November 17, 2006.

"The work displayed at the show will be powerful, fine art," said Pat Maloney, chairman of this year's show. "I think the diversity of the paintings will surprise people who might not realize how varied, interesting, and dynamic watercolor painting can be."

Featuring approximately 60 of the 400+ members of the Georgia Watercolor Society, the show's paintings will range in style from realism to impressionism to contemporary and abstract.

"We are honored to be hosting an art show of such artistic diversity and beauty, and to give our members another fabulous exhibit to experience," said Cindy Dadyala, membership coordinator of the Southern Museum. "Plus, visitors will have the opportunity to purchase these one-of-a-kind works of art.

The watercolor show is free with regular Southern Museum admission.

An Old Fashioned Christmas

Take a break from the hectic holiday season and celebrate at a slower pace at A Civil War Christmas at the Southern Museum December 9!

"Today, the holidays are an extremely busy time for everyone, but it wasn't always like that," revealed Director of Education Jennifer Legates. "Families can enjoy the simple pleasures of Christmas in the 19th century by making their own ornaments and seeing how the soldiers would have marked the holidays."

This fun annual event is free with regular Southern Museum admission.
